1. Describe a board game you would play? Who you would play it with? Apply it to a simulated day dream story. –Write the story from your point of view without the thoughts of the other player(s) of the board game.

2. A T.V. commercial hosted a product along the line of feminine hygiene and then another commercial hosted a product along the line of male hygiene. How would you write one commercial for both products and product lines that include male and female products from different manufacturers? No guidelines are set on the TV commercial except a 2 minute timing – pick your imaginary product lines and write the commercial.

3. Applications are defined as putting a process together – pick out one of the following and apply it to an ever day occurrence.
 - a. Row a boat
 - b. A mathematical theory
 - c. A nursery rhyme
 - d. A food recipe
 - e. A song
 - f. The Wright Brothers flight
